PREFACE.

Recent English Grammarians are coming to drop Orthography and Prosody as properly belonging clsewhere, and to treat Grammar as divided into Etymology and Syntax. It is in this sense that the term is employed in the present work: Etymology, the fellow of Syntax ; Grammatical Etymology, not Historical. As at first written, the book consisted entirely of classificd sentonees, prepared by the writer to serve him in rendering English into Japanose, and without a thought of their ceer leaving his own table; when, however, it was decided to publish them in the hope that they might prove helpful to others in their carlier studics, it appeared likely that the uscfulness of the book would be increased by a change in its form. Accordingly, an outline of Etymology was sketched out, and as many of the sentences as scemed desirable inserted, in illustration of important words ranged under thcir respective Parts of Speech. This statement will explain the presence of so large a number of examples; it is hoped also that it may afford a sufficient reason for certain blemishes in classification. The work being written from the English side, and with the design of helping the student to render ideas as they lie in an English mind, the author was able to find no title which better expressed his intention and method than the one adopted.

Transliteration is still a vexed question, no one of the systems yet proposed commanding universal acquiescence. Those desiring to consult the literature of the subject are referred to the Introduction to Hepburn's Dictionary, Aston's Grammar of the Written Language, a monograph by Mr. Bramsen, and to papers read before the Asiatic Society of Japan by Messrs. Satow and Dickens. After careful consideration, it was decided to adhere to Hepburn's system, merely changing chiu to ch $\bar{u}$ for consistency's sake. Not to speak of its intrinsic merits, it is the system of the only Japanese-English Dictionary in the language; it is followed in the transliterated edition of the New Testament just published; and it has transpired that it would accord with the views of members of the Asiatic Society especially qualified to pronounce on the subject, if it should be adopted in the Transactions of the Society wherever a phonetic system is employed.

The writer takes great pleasure in acknowledging his indebtedness to the labors of others, especially those of Dr. Hepburn and Messrs. Satow and Aston; more than to any other is he under obligations to Mr. Ibuka Kajinosuke, but for whase patient work the book would probably never have been written.

ENGLISH-JAPANESE ETYMOLOGY.

CHAPTER I.-THE SYLLABARY.

Instead of an alphabet, Japanese has a syllabary, two methods of arranging which obtain: the lroha, so called from the first syllables of a verse into which it has been cast; and the Go ju on, or table of the Fifty Sounds. The latter is much the more scientifio and slould be mastered as a key to Inflection and Agglutination.

As written in Japanese, certain of the syllables represent more than one sound, the changes in the consonantal element being indicated by the addition of diacritical marks. These variations will be found exhibited in the Go ji" on.

It will be observed that the Iroha contains forty-eight syllables and the Go ju on fifty. The $n$ of the former, however, is an addition ; and the eyi and second $u$ of the latter have been inserted to make its series complete.

CHAPTER II.-THE VERB.

I.-INFLECTION.

Tho Japanese Verb has four inflections, which may be termed Foundation Forms, since upon them is reared its entire structure. These are usually ealled the Negative Base, the Root, the Indicative Present and the Conditional Base. In the Spolen Language there are two Conjugations, and the following table exhibits the terminations of their respective Foundation Forms :-

|  | conj. I. |  |  |  |  | conj. 11. |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Neg. Base... | $\ldots$ | . | $a$ | ... | ... | $e$ | or | $i$ |
| Root ... |  | $\ldots$ | $i$ | ... | ... | c | or | $i$ |
| Indic. Pres. | $\ldots$ | $\ldots$ | $\imath$ | $\ldots$ | ... | cru | or |  |
| Cond. Base | $\ldots$ | $\ldots$ | c | ... | $\ldots$ | cre | or |  |

Any one Foundation Form of a verb belonging to the First Conj. being known, the remaining three can be readily obtained from the Go jul on.

Forms ending in ye, or in $i$ or $u$ preceded by a vowel, are to be referred to No. 10, not to No. 1 or 8. Turu-to come, suru-to do and the Honorific masu are irregular. A comparison of the following table with the Go ju on will make the above clear.

|  | NEG. BASE | ROOT | IND. PRES. | COND. BASE |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 1 |  |  |  |  |  |
| 2 | Kika | liki | kiku | Tilie | hear |
|  | tsuya | tsuyi | tsugue | tsuge | join |
| 3 | hanasa | Lanashi | hanasu | hanase | speak |
| 4 | tata | tachi | tatsu | tate | stand |
| 5 | shina | shini | shimu | stine | die |
| 6 | asoba | asobi | asobu | asobe | play |
| 7 | yama | yami | yamu | yame | cease |
| 8 |  |  |  |  |  |
| 9 | nara | nuri | naru | nare | become |
| 10 | hava | kai | liau | liaye | buy |
|  | iua | $i i$ | iu | iye | say |
|  | furusa | furui | furuu | furuye | sift |
|  | yatora | yatoi | yaton | yatoye | hire |
|  | ko | 1 i | kuru | liure | come |
|  | se or shi | shi | suru | sure | do |
|  | mase | mashi | masu | masure |  |

Tho construction of Foundation Forms in the Second Conjugation presents littlo dificulty, tho Neg. Base and Root being alike, and the Indic. Pres. and Cond. Base being formed by the simple addition of $r$ and $r e$.

| NEG. BASE |  | ROOT | INDIC. PRES. | COND. BASE, |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 1 FORMS IN $\epsilon_{\text {, }}$ |  |  |  |  |  |
| 2 | akic  arje | alie aye | alieru ayeru | aliere agere | open  raise |
| 3 | shirase  maze | shirase  mãe | shiraseru  mazeru | shirasere  mazere | tell  mix |
| 4 | sute  de | sute  de | suteru  deru | sutere  dere | throw away go out |
| 5 | ne | $n e$ | neru | nere | sleep |
| 6 | tabe | tabe | taberu | tabere | eat |
| 7 | same | same | samerie | samere | cool |
| 8 | ye | ye | yeru | yere | obtain |
| 9 | ore | ore | orerel | orere | break |

| NEG. BASE | ROOT | INDIC. PRES. | COND. BAS |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| $1 i$ | FORMS in $i$. |  |  |  |
| $2 k i$ | $1 i$ | liulu | kire | wear |
| 3 anji | $a n j i$ | anjiru | anjire | be anxious |
| 4 haji | haji | hajiru | hajire | be ashamed |
| 5 ni | $n i$ | niou | nire | resemblo |
| 6 abi | $a b i$ | abiru | abire | bathe |
| 7 mi | $m i$ | miru | mire | see |
| 8 |  |  |  |  |
| 9 Lari | kari | larinu | karire | borrow |
| $10 \quad i$ | $i$ | iru | ire | Le |

Certain verbs of the First Conjugation in which the Indie. Pres. ends in ru, are sometimes mistaken for verbs of the Second Conjugation, beeause the ru happens to be preceded by e or $i$. If the studeut will commit the annexed list and make it his habit to learn verbs by the Indic. Pres. rather than by the Root, he will have little further trouble with inflection, most verbs in eru aud iru, exeepting those in the list, belonging to the Sceond Conjugation.

| aseru | hurry | kajiru | gnaw |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| fuseru | invert | live | cut |
| heru | diminish | lieshiru | grate |
| hinerle | twist | ma!ive | trek |

| iru | enter, need, parch | shiru | know |
| lagiru | be bounded | soshiru | backbite |

II.-AGGLUTINATION.

Agglutination consists in the addition to Bases of independent words or particles. In many cases, however, time and use have suffered only a fragment of the original suffix to remain.

Sec. 1.-Moods and Tenses.
The Moods and Tenses of the Japanese Terb are formed, for the most part, by Agglutination :-

1. In both Conjugations, te, ta, tara, taro, tari, tai and taliknai, added to the Root, form the Participle, Indic. Past, Conditional Past, Probable Past, Frequentative, and the Affirmative and Negative of the Desiderative Adjective. In the Second Conjugatiou, yo or ro added to it forms the Imperative.
2. In both Conjugations, nai or mu, nalatta or nanda, naliattara or nandara, nakattaro or nandarō, nakattari or nandari, naliereba or neba, and naliute, nai de, dzu, d₹u ni or dsu ni shite, added to the Neg. Base, form the Neg. of the Present, Past, Cond. Past, Prob. Past, Frequentative, Cond. Present and Participle. In the First Conjugation, $u$ added to it and the $a-u$ contracted into $\overline{ } \overline{ }$, forms the Future; in the Second, $y^{\bar{o}}$ added forms the Future; and mai, the Fut. Neg.
3. In both Conjugations, na added to the Indic. Present, forms the Imperative Negative; in the First, mai added forms the Fut. Neg.
4. In both Conjugations, ba added to the Cond. Base forms the Cond. Pres. In the First, the Cond. Base and the Imperative are alike.

In the paradigms following, the lower forms are made up of the Root and the Honorific verb masu; they are more courtoous than the upper ones. Masu, lowerer, being without a Desid. Adj. of its own, a polito form of that part of the Yerb is obtained by substituting for the simple adjective its adverbial form followed by ! 10 ะaimasu (Sce VI. I. Sec. 1.)

Sec. 3.-Vorces.

1. The Passive:-Verbs of the First Conjugation form the Passive Voice by adding reru to the Neg. Base, which might thus be called the Voice Base; those of the Second, as well as suru and kuru, by adding rareru.
2. The Potential :-The Passive does service as a Potential also. Most verbs of the First Conjugation and a few of the Sccond, have besides a form in cru (or yeru). In many cases, the two forms are used without any appreciable difference in meaning; when, however, they do differ, the Passive is used of ability as regards law, duty, propriety, permission, willingness, feeling, of 'moral' ability-' may' as opposed to 'can'. The form in erre expresses absolute or 'physical' ability-the strict 'can'. Uicru, e.g., means 'can sell,' because some one wants to buy; urareru, because the party is at liberty to sell, or willing to do so at the price offered. Kilioyeru and liliareru both signify 'can hear'; likoyert, however, means either that the sound is audible, or that the person has good ears; likarert, that the matter is no secret, or that one has time, inclination, etc., to listen. In like mamncr, while miyeru declares that the object is visible or that the person has sight; mirareru asserts that there is no reason for conccalment, or that one has time to look or no objection to doing so. (For examples, see especially, Chap. II. V. Sce. (6.)
3. The Causative :-Verbs of the First Conjugation form the Causative Voico by adding seru; those of the Second, as also liuru, saseru to the Neg. Base. The Causative of suru is saseru.

Verbs in these voices all belong to the Sccond Conj. in cru.
It being thought moro polite to say that one is able to do a thing, or that he causes a thing to be done, than that he does it, the Potential and Causative Voices are sometimes used insteal of the Active, merely for the sake of courtesy.

II.-TRANSITIVE AND INTRANSITIVE FORMS.

SEc. 1.
In English, it often happens that the same verb is both transitive and intransitive ; in Japanese, such verbs have usually only the stem in common. In some cases, the Intransitive belongs to the First Conjugation and the Transitive to the Second, and vice versa; in others, the Transitive is a species of Causative. The following list comprises most in common use.

Sec. 2.
A considerable number of English Passives are rendered into Japanese by Intransitives. It should be borne in mind, however, that these Intransitives are not in the Passive Voice, and are not to accompany $n i$ with the agent, which requires instead the Passive of the corresponding Transitive.

The ship sank, but the sailors were Fune vea shidzunda ga send̄̄ va tasusaved. latta.

IV.-THE VERB TO BE.

There are three verbs in Japanese signifying to 'be'-aru, ore and iru. Excepting the Future armmai, the Negative forms of aru are not in use, their places being supplied by the Moods and Tenses of the Negative Adjective nai. (See VI. I. Sec. 1.) Oru and iru are synonyms, belonging respeetively to the First and the Second Conjugation.

1. Employed independently-not as Auxiliaries-aru is used of inanimate things; oru and iru of animate, exeepting in connection with Relative Clauses.
2. Followed by a Noun or Pronoun as a Predieate, to 'be' is rendered by de aru, often contracted da.
3. Equivalent to 'become', to 'be' is rendered by naru.
4. Followed by an Adjective as a Predicate-See VI. Sec: 1.

Gozaru is more courteous than aru, and o ide nasaru or irassharu more so than oru or iru. De gozaimasu, contracted from de gozarimasu, is still further familiarly shortened into desu. The idiomatic English 'there' has no equivalent in Japanese; neither has the idiomatic 'it.'

VII.-PASSIVE CONSTRUCTIONS.

1. The Passive Voice-See II. II. Scc. 3.
2. Intransitives employed to render English Passives-See II. III. Sec. 2.
3. It may be said, in general, that the use of the Passive Voice in much wider in English than in Japanese; many constructions, therefore, which in English are Passive, must be rendered into Japanese at a sacrifice of form :-
(a) When an Active construction with 'they ' might be substituted for the Passire one, the sentence is usually translated accordingly.
(b) When the English sentence is explanatory, the Verb becomes Active in Japanese, and is used as an Adjective to qualify a no (mono) following.
(c) When the clause containing the Passive is the Object of another Verb, its Verb assumes the Active form and is followed by no (toloro) ; thus, instead of saying, ' I saw such a thing done,' a Japanese would say, 'I saw the act of doing such a thing.'
(d) Am, is, are, was and were, followed by the Passive Participle and expressing past action still continuing in effect, are rendered by the Participle and aru, if the Japanese Verb be a Transitive; if it be an Intransitive, oru or $i$ ru takes the place of aru.
(c) The presence of certain ideas may determine the mode of translation: Becoming, coming to pass, resulting in, change, etc., are expressed by the Root of the Verb and ni naru, or by the Indicative Present and yo ni naru. Receiving is rendered by ukeru and morau.

CHAPTER III.-THE NOUN.

Sec. 1.
Besides being supplied with True Nouns, such as liaze-wind, chilara-strength, hito-a person, Japanese makes use of many Verbal Roots to serve as Nouns; as nejai-request, asorefear.

Sec. 2.-Abstract Nouns.

1. Abstract Nouns are frequently formed by adding linto to an Adjective or to the Present or Past of the Verb ; as -

| hayai loto | rapidity | deliinai koto | impossibility |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| lanashiii lioto | aflliction | lii wo tsukieru koto | attention |
| katai koto | hardness | komaru lioto | perplexity |
| shibui loto | astringency | on uro shiranai lioto | ingratitude |
| urusai koto | annoyance | tatsid lioto | abstinen |
| yoi koto | goodness | yeru lioto | acquisition |
| komaka na koto | accuracy | shilkiari shita lioto | firmness |
| ripipa na koto | beauty | sugureta listo | excellence |

2. Many Abstract Nouns are formed by adding sa to Adjective Roots; as taliasa-height, latasa-hardness, hayasa-speed. Nouns of the first class express simply quality, those of this class express also degree ; futiai lioto-depth, fuliasa-the depth of.

Sec. 3.-Concrete Nouns.
Many Concrete Nouns, names both of persons and things, are formed by adding mono to Nouns, Adjectives and Verbal Roots; as-

| adzukari mono | deposit | mazari mono | mixture |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| bake mono | ghost | nokori mono | leavings |
| deki mono | abscess | nui mono | sewing |
| hiyour mono | hypocrite | okori mono | gift |
| inaka mono | rustic | oseji mono | flatterer |
| ire mono | vessel | tabe mono | food |
| kai mono | purchase | nmai mono | dainty |
| ki mono | clothing | yaki mono | pottery |

Sec. 4.-Names of Trades.
The names of most of the trades are formed by adding $y a$ to the name of the article dealt in; as okeya-a cooper, honya-a bookseller, toriya - a bird-fancier.

Sec. 5.-Compound Nouns.
Compound Nouns abound, and are formed either by the union of tro Nouns or Verbal Roots, or by uniting a Verb or the Root of a Verb or of an Adjective to a Noun; as -

| aka-gane | copper | ji-liki | dictionary |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| cha-ire | tea caddy | omna-gami | goddess |
| hari-gane | wire | te-oke | pail |
| hiki-dashi | drawer | te-suri | hand rail |
| hiki-shio | ebb tide | yake-ishi | lava |
| ikil-saki | destination | yane-ita | shingle |

Sec. 6.-Gender.

Distinction in sex is sometimes expressed, as in English, by the use of different words; as otoko, omna-man, woman; chichi, haha-father, mother ; ototsan, olikasan-papa, mamma; musulio, musume-boy, girl. Sometimes it is expressed by prefixing $o$ or me, which correspond to 'he' and 'she' in such words as he-goat; as o shika, me jika-buck, doe; on dori, men dori-cock, hen. Properly speaking, however, Japanese Nouns are without Gender, and in most cases even sex is not indicated.

Sec. 7.-Number.

If necessary, the Plural can be formed by suffixing domo, ra, tachi or gata. This, however, is usually done only when ambiguity would otherwise arise. Tachi and gata, being more comrteous than domo or ra, are commonly employed of persons that should be referred to with more or less of respect.

Sec. 8.-Case.
Case is expressed by means of the Postpositions.

CILAPTER IV.-THE PRONOUN.

I.-PERSONALS AND POSSESSIVES.

> I, me wataliushi (contracted watashi).
> we, us #atakushidomo.
> you sing. omaye, omaye san, anata.
> pl. omaye $\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { tachi, } \\ \text { gata, }\end{array}\right.$ omaye san $\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { tachi, } \\ \text { yata, }\end{array}\right.$ anatayata.
> he, him are, ano hito, ano o $\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { hito. } \\ \text { lata. }\end{array}\right.$
> she, her > are, ano $\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { hito, } \\ \text { onna, }\end{array}\right.$ ano o $\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { hito. } \\ \text { kata. }\end{array}\right.$
> it > sore.
> they, them arera, ano hito $\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { tachi, } \\ \text { ra, }\end{array}\right.$ ano o liatayata.

Omaye san is more polite than omaye; and anata, which is generally used in addressing equals and superiors, still more so ; the same is true also of ano hito and ano o lata, as compared with are.

Students, among themselves, frequently use bokiz for 'I 'and kimi for 'you.' A scholar is sensei; a master, danna or danna san. Tōnin means 'he' or 'she' of one already named. 'It,' with Verbs of 'saying' and 'doing,' is rendered by $s \overline{0}$.

It may be said, in general, that the Personal Pronouns are seldom used excepting when emphasis is to be expressed, or when ambiguity would result from their absence. They are often employed once at the beginning of a conversation or sentence and then dropped. It is also true that some speakers use them more freely than others.

Possessive Pronouns are formed by adding no to the Personals ; as watakushi no-my, mine. The Adjective form of sore, however, is sono, not sore no; and it may mean 'his' or 'your' as well as 'its.'
I brought the box and Denjirō brought Watakushi wa hako wo motte kita shi the bundle.

II.-COMPOUND PERSONALS.

Pronouns followed by 'self, are rendered according to the shade of meaning to be expressed :-

1. Simply emphatic-the Personal Pronoun itself.
2. One's self as well as another-the Personal Pronoun and mo yahari; yahari, however, is often understood.
3. Onc's self as distinguished from others-jibun.
4. By one's self, alonc-hitori de.
5. Of itself, spontaneously-shizen ni.

Jibun and hitori de are sometimes combined.

> III.-HONORIFICS.

As stated above, it is a marked characteristic of Japanese to avoid the use of Personal and Possessive Pronouns; especially is this the case in addressing equals or superiors and in speaking of those who should be mentioned with respect. In such instances, the absence of the Pronouns is generally made good by the presence of what usually go under the name of Honorifics.
Sec. 1.-O and (io.

The Honorific particles 0 and $\rho \rho$ are prefixed to -

1. Nouns.
2. Yerbs:-
(a) When the person addressed or referred to is the Agent in the action, the Verb assumes the lioot form (excepting those Verbs made up of a Noun and suru, in which the surn become masam) and is followed by nasaru or ni naru. Sometimes de gozarimasu takes the place of nasaru or ni naru, the Root in this case becoming a Noun.
(b) When the person addressed or referred to is the Object, either direct or indirect, of the speaker's action, mos $n$ is employed instead of nasaru. Verbs made up of a Noun and itasu (suru) or ni naru, however, require no change beyond prefixing the Honorific.
3. Adjectives and Adverbs:-In sentences addressed to equals or superiors, the Japanese often prefix $o$ to Adjectives and Adverbs, even where the English idiom drops the Pronoun.

As a rule, o precedes Japanese words, and go, Chinese ; o rusu, o taliu and go mottomo, however, are familiar examples of exceptions.

Sama is sometimes appended to Nouns; and instances occur where Pronouns are used in addition to $o$ and go.

Nearly all the examples in this Section will be found somewhere in Saton's Truaika Hen. Nost of them are common expressions, some of which are not easily rendered literally.

Where is your house, Sir?
Remember me to your family.

Sec. 2.-Honorific Verbs.

1. Used independently :-There are certain Verbs that are used in speaking of the actions of those who are either really or by courtesy inferiors, and others that are employed when one comes to mention the actions of a superior. Both of these classes, especially in conversation betreen equals or with superiors, commonly dispense with the Personal Pronouns, and without ambiguity.

The following list comprises most in daily use. Those in parentheses are only relatively humble, not absolutely; humble as compared with those in the second column.

Kudasaru and itadakiu are much more courteous than kiveru and morau. Kureru is sometimes employed even of one's own action towards an inferior:

A sentence containing morau is often the best thay of rendering an English sentence containing to 'give'; and chōdai is constantly used where we should say, 'please give me.' In the same way, 'please lend me' is commonly expressed by haishaku.

I'll give you as many as you nced. O iriyō duke agemaskō.
If it's convenient to you, Ill give you Go tsugō ga yokereba, raigetsu bun your next month's salary now.

2. Used as Auxiliaries:-Besides being used independently, ageru, morau, itadaku, kureru and kudasaru, are also used in connection with other Verbs as Auxiliaries. In such cases, ayeru expresses the idea that the inferior performs the action for the superior ; ludasaru and liureru, vice versa; morau and itadakn, that one gets an action performed for him by another. (Comp. IX. Sec. 10.)

Tudasaru is much more courteons than lureru: o liure is frequently employed in civil commands. The same is true of itallakit as compared with morau, the letter being often uscd where the service is paid for.

In all cases, politeness requires equals to be regarded as superiors.

Inudasaru and liureru, especially in the Imperative, are fair renderings of 'please.'

Frudasaru many follow the Root preceded by 0 ; with this cx coption, all five verbs succeed the Participle. Ayeru, morau and itallaliu may be accompanied by o and mōsu: as o morai mōsu.

IV.-RELATIVES.

Japanese is mithout Relative Pronouns. Relative Clauses are placed before what in English is the Antecedent, which they qualify as Adjectives.

When the Antecedent is 'it,' 'that,' 'one,' or when it is not expressed (in clauses with 'what'), it is rendered by no (mono or Roto, as the case may be).

It will be observed that the Prepositions of Relative Clauses generally drop out in translation.

V.-INTERROGATIVES.

1. Who-dare, (more courteous) donata.
2. Which:-
(a) Substantive form:

Of tro-dochira.
Of any number (usually more than two) - dore.
(b) Adjective form:

Of two-lochira no.
Of any number (usually more than two)-lono.

3. What:-
(a) Substantive form—nani ; do or ikaga.
(b) Adjective form-nani, nan no; dū iu.
'Whose' is dare no.
Dō and iliaga (how) are used in inquiries regarding intention, opinion, et cetera.

Nani expects a direct categorical answer; dō iu is rather 'What sort of,' and looks for explanation, description, qualification; a distinction, howerer, not rigidly observed. The $i$ in nani is often elided.

In inquiries for the name of a thing, nan to $i u$ is employed.
With Verbs of 'saying,' nan to may take the place of nani.
'Whose,' 'Which' and 'What,' in the sense of 'belonging to what place or premises,' are rendered by doko (where) no.

CHAPTER V.-PRONOMINAL ADJECTIVES.

There is an important class of words which have been variously classified by different English grammarians. Most of them are at times used by themselves and at times to qualify other words; a recent author has aceordingly grouped them together under the term Pronominal Adjectives. The classification is open to criticism; such an arrangement, however, suits the purpose of the present writer better than any other.

Sec. 1.-This, That, Such.

1. This, these:-
(a) Pronominal form—liore.
(b) Adjective form-kono.
2. That, those :-
(a) Pronominal form-sare; are.
(b) Adjective form-sono; ano.
3. Such:-
(a) Like this-konna, kī iu, lono ȳ̄ na, kō iu ȳ̃ na.
(b) Like that $\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { sonna, sō iu, sono yō na, sī iu yō na. } \\ \text { anna, aa iu, ano ȳ̄ na, aa iu yō na. }\end{array}\right.$

Sore and sono are used of things near to or connceted with the person addressed, of subjeets therefore which are before his mind; accordingly, they are the proper rendering of 'that' referring to a matter just mentioned. This also explains why sore means 'it.'

Are and ano are used of things more or less remoto from the speaker and hearer' ; they are therefore employed in introducing a subject.

The distinction between sore and are holds good between sonna and anna.

With Verbs of 'saying,' 'this' is rendercd by kin, and 'that' by su . In the scuse of 'to-day,' 'this' is rendered by kiyo or komichi.

When used to specify and emphasize a particular point or feature ('just there'), soln takes the place of sore.

Followed by an Adjective, konna becomes konna ni ; sonna and ama become soma ni and anna ni.

(c) Both-dochira mo.
2. Neither (also cither with the Negative)-dochira mo and the Negative.
3. Both-dochira mo, riyōhō, riyōnin, futari.

Dochira and riyō̄̄ are sometimes followed by no and precede their Nouns; usually, however, they come after them and alone.

To mo adds emphasis to riyōhō and futari. Riyōnin and futari are used only of persons. In the case of an action, dō de mo takes the place of dochira de mo.

Sec. 3.--Each.

1. Every one individually-meimei, tenden ni.
2. Apiece-dzutsu.

Meimei and tenden $n i$ follow the Noun which they partition. Meimei is used only of persons.

Diutsu follows the number or amount distributed. When 'each' is used Pronominally, hitori, mina and (in the case of two things) dochira mo are inserted to prevent ambiguity. Sometimes these words are inserted when 'each' is an Adjective.

CIIAPTER VI.-THE ADJECTIVE.

I.-CLASSES.

Japanese words rendering English Adjectives may be divided into four classes:-True Adjectives, Adjectives in $n a$ and no, Presents and Preterites, and uninflected words such as mina and dzutsu.

Sec. 1.-The True Adjective.
All Japanese Adjectives are wanting in Gender, Number and Case ; the True Adjective, however, like the Verb, has a Foundation Form, from which Moods, Tenses and the True Adverb are obtained by Inflection and Agglutination.

PARADIGM OF THE TRUE ADJECTIVE.

| Root | taka | high |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| Adjective | takai | bigh or is high |
| Adverb | takalu | high |
| Participle | takakute | being high |
| Past | takakatta | was high |
| Probable Past | takakattaro | probably was high |
| Conditional Past | takakattara | if or when was or |
|  |  | should be high |
| Frequentative | takalattari | being high |
| Future | takakaro | will be high |
| Conditional Present | takakereba | if is or will bo high |
|  |  |  |

| amiable. | BAD. | dense. | Heavy. |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| yasashi | varu | shige | omo |
| yasashii | warni | shiyei | omoi |
| yasashitu | waruk | shigetiu | omeokr |
| yasashilinte | Haruliute | shiyeliute | omokute |
| yasashikatta | warukatta | shiyckatta | omoliatta |
| yasashiliattarō | warukattarō | shiyeliattarō | omokattarà |
| yasashiliattara | waruliattara | shigeliattara | omulattara |
| yasashiliattari | waruliattari | shigekattari | omokattari |
| yasashiliarō | narutiaro | shiyclarō | omokarū |
| yasashikercba | warukercha | shiyckercba | omokercla |

It will be observed that one form serves both as an Attributive and a Predicate. Accordingly, 'this is a high mountain' would be rendered, kore wa takai yama da; and 'this mountain is high,' kono yama ua talai. When employed as a Predicate, however, two other forms are also in use: the Adjective may be followed by $n o$ da; or, what is more courteous, the Adverb may be substituted accompanied by arimasu or gozaimasu; in which case, aliu and oku are frequently contracted into $\bar{o}$; iku and uku, into $\bar{u}$; and eku, into $y_{\overline{0}}$; as 'this mountain is high', kono yama wa taliai no da or kono yama wa takō gozaimasu.

Instead of the Future, the Present is often used followed by the Future of de arn; as takai destō.

Negative forms of the True Adjective are obtained by adding the Negative Adjective nai to the Adverb used as a Base.

PARADIGM OF NEGATIVE FORMS.

yoku

True Adjectives frequently unite with other words forming Compound Adjectives :-

1. Without any connecting word; as-

| hodo-yoi | moderate | lawari-yasui | inconstant |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| kokoro-yasui. | intimate | nasake-uai | heartless |
| wakari-yasui | simple | yondokoro-mai | unavoidable |

2. An important class is formed by uniting Adjectives to Nouns (and Verbal Roots) by no, which in the Predicate becomes ga; as yama no ōi-hilly, yama ga ōi-'is' hilly. It will be observed that particular words enter into these compounds with great frequency; as $\bar{i}$, yoi, warmi; and also that the English prefixes and suffixes 'in' 'un' and 'less' are commonly rendered by zarui or the Negative Adjective nai ; as-

| benri no yoi | convenient | linnare no warmi | indigestible |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| benzetsu no yoi | cloquent | sokoi no tearui | malicious |
| hiyjuban no yoi | reputable | sube no warui | rough |
| kaori no yoi | fragrant | yekōji no warui | pig-headed |
| limavi no yoi | systematic | yojin no warui | incautious |
| kokoromochi no | comfortable |  |  |
| yoi |  | hito no ui | populous |
| kon no yoi | energetic | hito-jini no ui | sanguinary |
| motenashi no yoi | hospitable | ishi no ōi | stony |
| omoi-kivi no yoi | resolute | Kadzu no oit | numerous |
| sasshi no yoi | considerate | kaze no ūi | breezy |
| sasolu no yoi | self-possessed | imi no fulai | expressive |
| shiauase no yoi | fortunate | naka no fukai | intimate |
| tashinami no yoi | temperate | utayuri no fuliai | suspicious |
| tsuȳ̃ no yoi | convenient (of | yenriyo no fukai | scrupulous |
|  | arrangements) | yoku no fukai | covetous |
| wre no yoi | saleable |  |  |
| watari no yoi | sensible | ki no ōkii | generous |
| wari no yoi | Iucrative | ki no mijikai | quick-tempered |
| yojin no yoi | cautious | ki no hayai | excitable |
|  |  | me no hayai | sharp-sighted |
| benri no warui | inconvenient | me no takai | same(mentally) |
| hara no warui | bad-hearted | sei no takai | tall |
| hiyoban no warui | disreputable | sei no hitiui | short |
| iji no warui | ill-natured |  |  |
| liatte no warui | incommodious | aji no nai | flavorless |

| chiliara no nai | powerless | rui no nai | incomparable |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| hanashi no nai | taciturn | sasshi no nai | inconsiderate |
| hin no nai | undignified | shiliata no nai | hopeless |
| iibun no nai | faultless | soko no nai | bottomless |
| jibun-gatteno nai | unselfish | tameshi no nai | unprecedented |
| jōai no nai | heartless | tamochi no nai | perishable |
| kagen no nai | intemperate | tayema no nai | incessant |
| kagiri no nai | boundless | tsumi no nai | innocent |
| katachi no nai | immaterial | utagai no nai | indubitable |
| machigai no nai | correct | watakushi no nai | disinterested |
| mayai no nai | genuine | yeko-hilii no nai | impartial |

3. A number of Compound Adjectives are found ending in de nai or mo nai. In the Predicate, mo usually becomes ga or wa; de remains unchanged ; as-

| shōjiki de nai | dishonest | tawai mo nai | frivolous |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| tashika de nai | uncertain | wake mo nai | simple |
| arisō mo nai | unlikely | こōsa mo nai | easy |
| kono uye monai | supreme, con- |  |  |
|  | summate |  |  |

Sec. 2.-Adjectives in $n a$ and $n o$.
A large number of uninflected words, for the most part Nouns and many of them Chinese, are made to serve as Adjectives by the addition of na or $n o$, which in the Predicate become de arn; as 'is this very fertile land?'-kore wa yohodo yutaka na jimen de gozaimasn lia; 'the land was not very fertile'-sono jimen wa amari yutaka de gozaimasenu deshita. Where a truo Adjectivo would assume the Participial form, de aru becomes de; as 'the path up Fujisan is stecp and narrow'-Fujisan ye nobore michi wa kenso de halia ya semai.

A few specimens of the class follow:-

| arisō na | probable | ripia na | splendid |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| chlụgi na | loyal | shidzulia na | quiet |
| fushin $n a$ | doubtful | kin no | golden |
| ikita yō na | lifelike | malika no | crimson |
| kenson na | humble | makito no | true |
| kenyatu na | economical | mukashi no | ancient |
| lirei na | pretty | shime hado no | fatal |
| liomane na | proud | shita no | lower |
| muri na | nnreasonable | soresore no | respective |
| nasasō na | improbable | mye no | upper |
| nōben na | eloquent | yehiu no | eternal |

Sec. 3.-Presents and Preterites.

It is a marked peculiarity of Japanese that the Present and Preterite of any Verb may be used to qualify a Noun, a peculiarity which is constantly exemplified in Relative Clauses. Accordingly, many English Adjectives and Participles used as Adjectives find their equivalents in Verbs in these tenses. In some instances the Verb is Affirmative, in some Negative; and in some, it is only the last word of a combination.

Two points should be borne in mind when Adjectives of this class are to be used in the Predicate: first, Preterites must be exchanged for Participles followed by iru or oru; secondly, in a combination made up of eitber a Present or a Preterite joined to a preceding Noun by no, the connecting no becomes ga; as open-aita, 'is' open-aite iru; drunken-sake ni yotta, 'is' drunk-sake ni yotte iru; guilty-tsumi no aru, 'is' guiltytsumi ga aru; bloody-chi no tsuita, 'is' bloody—chi ya tsuite iru.

Many of the English Adjectives ending in 'ble ' are rendered by Intransitives or Potentials.

II.-COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES (AND ADVERBS).

Sec. 1.-The Comparative Degree.

1. In a greater degree-motto.
2. Two different things being compared :-
(a) When 'than' is expressed-yori and the Positive.
(b) When 'than' is not expressed $-h \bar{o}$ added to the one possessing the quality in the greater degree.
3. Two Comparatives, the increase in one being proportioned to that in the other (the more-the more)-hodo following the former.

Instead of motto (more), the Japanese often use mo sukoshi (a little more).

For 'more' and 'more than ' signifying not greater in degree, but a greater quantity or greater number of-See V. Sec. 16. and X. See. 13.
1.

Sec. 2.-Tue Superlative Degree.
An absolute Superlative is rendered by ichi ban preceding the Adjective; a relative Superlativo-ono in which 'very' or 'cx-ceedingly' might bo substituted for 'most' without materially affecting the sense, is rendered by some Adverb signifying 'very'; as mottomo, itatte.

Which is the best hotel in Tökiyō? Tükiyō de váa nan to iu yadoya ga ichi ban yō gozaimasul ka.
The first plan seems to me the best. Saisho no kufū ga ichi ban yosa sü da.

CHAPTER VII.-THE ADVERB.

I.-CLASSES.

Japanese words by which English Adverbs are rendered may be classificd as follows :-

Sec. 1.
The True Adverb already notiecd in conncetion with the True Adjcetivc; as yoku-well, hayaku-quickly, zōsa mo naku-easily.

\text { Sec. } 2 .

Uninflected words, which may be divided into three groups:1. Those employod without the addition of suffixes. Ccrtain ones among these, however, are sometimes found followed by ni. Examples-

| bakari | only, about | moto | originally |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| $d \bar{o}$ | how | naze | why |
| dzuilnu | pretty | oioi | gradually |
| hilkiy $\bar{o}$ | substantially | s $\bar{o}$ | so |
| litto | positively | tabitali | often |
| mada | yet | tada | only |
| mo | cven | tais $\bar{o}$ | very |
| $m \bar{o}$ | alrcady | taitci | gencrally |

2. Those followed by $n i$ and analogous to Adjectives in $n a$ and no ; as shidzuka ni-quietly, makoto ni-truly.
3. Those followed by to. The group referred to are Japanese words, for the most part of a sort resembling the English words, 'ding-dong', 'pell-mell', topsy-turvy', et ectera. They are numerous and frequently heard in common conversation; like their English analogues, however, rather inelegant. The fuller form is in to shite, though the shite is usually omitted and sometimes the to. Their Adjeetives are formed by changing to shite into to shita, the to being sometimes dropped; as bonyari to shite or bonyari to or bonyari-dimly ; bonyari to shita or bonyari shitadim. Certain Chinese words will also be found followed by to : as shizen to-naturally, totsuzen to-suddeuly. These have besides a form in $n i$, and their Adjectives, which are rare, end in $n o$; as shizen no. Examples-

| buruburu to | tremblingly | shikikari to | firmly |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| daradara to | sluggishly | sorosoro to | slowly |
| guragura to | totteringly | surasura to | glibly |
| hakhiri to | explieitly | ukiki to | vacantly |
| ikiihi to | rivaciously | yoroyoro to | staggeringly |
| kossori to | stealthily | zarazara to | roughly |

Sec. 3.
Participles of certain Verbs, some Affirmative and some Negative. Examples oecur in which the Participle is only the final word of a combination. Examples-

| benhiyō shite | diligently | isoide | quiekly |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| damatte | silently | kanashinde | sadly |
| hokotte | proudly | machigatte | wrong |

| ochitsuite | calmly | tanki ni shite impatiently |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
| oshinde | sparingly | uchi-akete candidly |
| sadamete | certainly | kauaradiu ni immutably |
| tsumande | briefly | shiradzu ni ignorantly |
| tutsushinde | respectfully | tayedzu perenuially |
| $y_{\text {ōjin }}$ shite  yorokonde | prudently  gladly | $\left.\begin{array}{l}\text { kare kore iwadzu } \\ n i\end{array}\right\}$ unhesitatingly |
| haya-sugite | prematurely | mono-oshimadzu |
| ki ni shite | anxiously | $n i \mathrm{l}$ |
| ki wo tsukete | carefully | mutio-midzu ni rashly |
| sei-dashite | vigorously | omote-datadsu ni informally |

CHAPTER YIII. THE NUMERAL.

Sec. 1.-Cardinals.
Japanese is supplied with two series of Cardinals ; one Japanese, the other Chinese. The former ends with ten.

| Japanese. |  | cminese. |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 1 | hitotsu | ichi | 11 jü ichi | 21 ni jü ichi |
| 2 | futatsu | $n i$ | $12 j \pi n i$ | 30 san $j \bar{u}$ |
| 3 | mitsn | san | 13 jū san | 40 shi jū |
| 4 | yotsu | shi | 114 jū shi | 100 hiyaku |
| 5 | itsutsu | go | 15 ju go | 200 ni hiyakn |
| 6 | mutsu | rolu | 16 jū roliu | 300 sam biyaku |
| 7 | nanatsu | slichi | 17 ju shichi | 600 rop piyatu |
| 8 | yatsu | hachi | 18 jü hachi | 800 hap piyaku |
| 9 | kokonotsu | ku | 19 jūku | 1000 sen |
| 10 |  | $j \bar{u}$ | 20 niju | 2000 ni sen |
|  | 10,000 | man | 100,000 | $j \bar{l}$ man |
|  | 20,000 | ni man | 1,000,000 | hiyalzu man |

The Japanese Cardinals usually follow the Nouns they qualify, as chöchin mitsu-three lanterns; sometimes, however, they precede them, in which case they either drop their final syllable, which is allowable before Japanese words, as mi tsuki-three months, or they are followed by no, as mitsn no halio-three boxes.

Up to ten, the Chinese series is used only with the Descriptive Numerals and Chinese words of measure, weight, time, et cetera; as sun-inch, shaku-foot, lien-six feet, chō-sixty lien, ri-two miles and a half, lin-catty, hiyō-bag, ji-hour, nen-year, et cetera. Above ten, the Chinese series is the only one in use.

Sec. 2.-Descriptive Numerals.

In certain instances the English idiom requires a Numeral to be followed by a word (usually) descriptive of the thing cnumerated. Sometimes the shape of the article has determined the word used, sometimes the form in which comes to market, sometimes a marked feature in it, sometimes the need of individualization, et cetera; as two sheets or rolls of paper or music, so many panes of glass, pieces of tape, stacks of hay, bundles of straw, blades of grass, drops of water, flakes of snow, sticks of wood, head of cattle, bales of cotton, pairs of scissors, cups of tea, glasses of winc, copies of a book, pieces of statuary. In Japanese, words of this sort are constantly met with, not only because they are much more numerous than in English, but also because so many of them are applied to wholo classes of objects. Out of moro than fifty, the following will be found to embraco most in common uso in the Colloquial. They aro added to the Chinese Cardinals ; nin, jū and mai, however, prefer yo (four) to shi.

| persons | nin | money, clothes, plates, |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
| animals | hiki | sheets of paper, et ce- |
| birds | $\pi^{\prime}$ | $\text { things }{ }^{-m a i}$ |
| houses | ken |  |
| ships | sō | generally ...... |
| $\left.\begin{array}{l} \text { shoes } \\ \text { socks } \end{array}\right\} \text { pairs of }$ | sokut | $\left.\begin{array}{r} \text { masts, trees, pencils, } \\ \text { ropes, umbrellas, tubes, } \end{array}\right\}_{-h o n}$ |
| $\left.\begin{array}{ll} \text { jinrikis, } & \text { guns, } \\ \text { candles, } & \text { scissors } \end{array}\right\}$ | chio | bottles, and loug cylinders generally ......... |
| $\text { books }\left\{\begin{array}{l} \text { volumes } \\ \text { copies } \end{array}\right.$ | satsn  but | $\left.\begin{array}{c}\text { cups, glasses, pails, et } \\ \text { cetera (full) } \\ . . . . . . . . . .\end{array}\right\}$ hai |
| mats | $j \overline{0}$ |  |

Nin and $j \bar{\sigma}$ follow the Numeral without alteration in cither; as ichi uin, san uin, rolu uin, ju uin; the following letter changes take place, however, when the other words are preceded by ichi,

- san, rokin or $j \bar{u}$.

нimi.

| is sotiut | is satsu | it chō | sam ba | same mai |
| san zoliu |  |  | rop pa |  |
| jis solut | jis satsu | jit cho | jip pa. |  |

Hitori, futari and yottari, are common substitutes for ichi, ni and yo nin.

Usually the Descriptive Numerals follow their Nouns; as 'bring me threc or four cups of tea, -cha wo san shi hai motte loi; instances oceur, however, where they come first, in which eases they are followed by $n o$; as go satsu no hon-five books.

Illustrations of the use of Descriptive Numerals will be found on pages $101,104,105$, and throughout the book gencrally.

Sec. 3.-Ordinals.

Ordinals are formed by adding me to the Japanese, or bam (ban) me to the Chinese Cardinals. A third scries is formed by prefixing dai instead of adding bam me, and a fourth by employing both dai and bam me.

- Yo, ju yo, et ectera, take tho place of shi, ju shi, et cetera, before bam me; otherwise the series is regular.

No is added to an Ordinal to fit it to qualify a Noun following.

| 1st | hitotsu me nu | islii bam me un | dai ichi $\left\{\begin{array}{l}\text { un } \\ \text { liam me no }\end{array}\right.$ |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 2nd | futatsu me no | ni lam me nu | $\text { dai ni }\left\{\begin{array}{l} \text { un } \\ \text { ham me uo } \end{array}\right.$ |
| $3 d$ | mitsw me' 21 | sam lam me nu | $\text { Iai }\left\{\begin{array}{l} s a n ~ n o \\ \text { sam bam me no } \end{array}\right.$ |
| 4th | yotsu me no | go bam me mo | $\text { dai }\left\{\begin{array}{l} \text { shi mo } \\ \text { yo bam me no } \end{array}\right.$ |
| 10th | tis meno | j" bam me m" | $\text { slai } j \pi\left\{\begin{array}{l} n o \\ \text { bam me no } \end{array}\right.$ |
| 11th |  | ji" ichi bam me mo | $\text { daijuichi }\left\{\begin{array}{l} n o \\ \text { bam me no } \end{array}\right.$ |
| 20th |  | ni ju bam me no | $\text { dai } n i j \bar{n}\left\{\begin{array}{l} n o \\ \text { lam me no } \end{array}\right.$ |

When the succession is one of time, do or hen is employed instead of bau. In like manner, when the Ordinals are used in connection with expressions of time, weight, measure, or with the Descriptive Numerals, these words take the place of ban, a Japanese word being preceded by a Japanese Cardinal ; as-

| second time | ni do me |
| :--- | :--- |
| fourth time | shi hen me |
| third day | mik li me |

| third month | mi tsuli me |
| :--- | :--- |
| sixth year | rolun nen me |
| fourth pound | shi kin me |
| first chō | it chō me |
| third ri | san ri me |
| cighth tsubo | ya tsubo me |
| third man | san nin me |
| second dog | ni hiki me |
| fifth house | !o ken me |
| fourth jinriki | shi chō me |
| sixth cup | rop pai me |
| seventh page | shichimai me |
| eighth bottle | hachi hon me |

The Adverbial Ordinals are formed by prefixing dai and adding $n i$ to the Chinese Cardinals; as dai mi ni-secondly, dai san nithirdly; usually the $n i$ is dropped after dai $i c h i-f i r s t$.

Sec. 4.-Fractions.
Fractions are usually rendered by the Chinese Cardinals. The denominator comes first, and is followed by bun no (sometimes contracted into $h$ ) and the numerator; as sam bun no ni-twothirds, go bun no ichi-one-fifth, jū lun no shi-four-tenths.

The Noun half is ham bun; the Adjective, han; as-

Ill take half.
Half will be plenty.
Can't you wait half an hour?

Ham bun torimaskō.
Ham bun de takusan da.
Han ji kan mataremasemu lia.

> Sec. 5.-Percentage.

Ten per cent is ichi wari; twenty per eent, mi wari. Up to ten, percentage is expressed by $\quad$ budded to the Chinese Cardinals; as ichi bu, ui lu, ct cetera.

Sec. 6.-Consecutive Numbers.
In consecutive numbers, the highest comes first, the second next, following the English order; as 'the fourth of July, 1776 'sen shichi hiyaku shichi jū rokue nen, shichi guneatsu, yolike.

> Sec. 7.—Address.

The order is from general to particular, directly the reverse of that usually followed on an English letter. The number of the house is commonly followed by chi (lot); as-

Mr. Mayeda Toshimitsu, No. 2, First Chō, Kobiki Ward, Kiyo Bashi District, Tökiyō.

CHAPTER IX.-THE PREPOSITION.

What in English are Prepositions, in Japanese are Postpositions, which may be classified as Simple and Compound.

The Simple Postpositions are de, ni, ye, no, liara, yori and made.

The Compound Postpositions are made up of a Noun preceded by $n o$, which links them to the foregoing word, and followed by $n i$; as no shita ni-underneath, no kauari ni-instead of, no tame $u i$-for the sake of. De, $y^{\ell}$ and $n o$ are sometimes substituted for $n i$; de and $y e$ to express certain shades of meauing (Comp. Secs. 1, 2,4), and no to join the Postposition to a word following. Compound Postpositions become Adverbs by dropping 110 ; following an Adjective, also, the $n o$ is dropped, as sono uye $n i$-on top of it. These words being Nouns are often used as Predicates, in which case da takes the place of $n i$; they may also become the Direct Object of a Verb, when $n i$ gives way to wo.

Some English Prepositions are rendered by Participles; as ni yotte-according to; and some, when used in a special sense, are translated accordingly, as 'for' (to fetch)-tori ni.
Sec. 1.-At.

1. Place:-
(a) With a Verb of situation-ni.
(b) With a Verb of action-le.

With a Verb of situation, ni is used to render both 'in' and 'at'; with a Yerb of action, de. In certain Yerbs of action, however, as tatsu-to stand, suraru-to sit, the idea of action is often subordinate to that of situation ; under such circumstances, they will usually be accompanied by $n i$. This is the explanation of the $n i$ in sentences of the sort on page 95 , the point of the inquiry not being whether grass trones in the desert, but whether it grows in the desert-whether there is any grass there; so in the example on page 100, the act of establishing is altogether secondary to the fact that preaching stations have been established-that they exist. Whether de or $n i$ is employed will depend, therefore, upon what idea is prominent in the speaker's mind ; as a general rule, however, it will be found that aru, orl and iru are accompanied by $n i$, other Verbs by de.

It may be worth while to state in passing that in speaking of companies, associations, the government and departments of the same, et cetera, de is often inserted when in English the simplest construction is one without any Preposition; the commonest example of this is seịin de: as 'I hear the Tükiyo Fu is going to abolish the Chū Gakī̄̄ before long -kondo Tōkiyō Fu de Chū Gakkö (to) haisu sō cla, 'so the Beisho Gaisha met with a serious loss the other day '-sendatte Beisho Gaisha de taiken son wo shita sī da, 'they say the Mitsu Bishi Kaisha expect soon to buy another lot of stenmers'-chikajika ni Mitsu Bishi Káaisha de mata jölisen ưo liai-iveru sū da.

CHAPTER X.-THE CONJUNCTION.

Like most of the other Parts of Speech, English Conjunctions are rendered into Japanese in a variety of ways :-

1. By Particles; as to-and, mo-both, ka-or.
2. By Nouns; as yuye ni-because, $y \overline{0} n i-$ so that.
3. By the Conditional Mood; as areba-if it is.
4. By the Participial forms of the Verb and Adjective; as, tomatte o yasumi nasaru ga yō yozarimashō-you'd better stop and rest.
Sec. 1.-And.

Connecting :-

1. Nouns-to (which may be repeated after the last Noun), ni.
2. Verbs and Adjectives-the first Verb and usually the first True Adjective assume their Participial forms, the atte of de atte being dropped and de naki or de nai generally taking the place of de nakute; Adjectives in na and no change no and na into de (de atte). In sentences, however, containing two Subjects whose aetions are more or less in contrast, the Conjunction is commonly rendered by shi.
3. Present Participles-the Frequentive form.
4. Equivalent to 'but', 'yet', 'because', 'when', 'if', 'since', et cetera-translated accordingly.
5. And so forth-ya . . . ya . . . nado or dano.
6.

1. One or the other-lia. In questions connected by ' $\mathrm{Or}^{\prime}$ ' in which the members are in contrast, and also in sentences containing 'whether' followed by 'or ', a Verb understood in English must be repeated; to put it differently, in such cases the Japaneso ask two complete questions. It should be stated kere that questions in Japanese are followed by lia; after such interrogativo words as naze, clare, et cetcra, however, $k a$ is often omitted.
2. Either one or the other no matter which; whichever is preferred; both alike possible, permissible or matters of indifference; in cither case-mo mo.
3. Either with a Negative and equivalent to any more or better than something or some one else-yahari. When the subject or the object is expressed, yahari is commonly accompanied by mo.

ADDENDUM.-THE VERB TO BE.

1. The statement on page 33 that oru and iru are used of animate things, should be limited. In speaking of animate things, oru and iirl are employed to render to 'be' when used in the sense of 'present in or at a place'; in the sense of 'in existence,' they give way to aru.
2. The statement in the same connection that arn is employed with Relative Clauses, should be supplemented so as to read, Relative Clauses or their equivalents.
3. Perhaps it should be added that aru in the sense of 'have,' is constantly used of animate things.

ERRORS AND OMISSIONS.

Page 41, line 8, for irasslitara read irassli'tara.
Page 55, line 17, for gosaimasu read yosaimasu.
Page 128, line 5 , for tutsushinde read tsutsushinde.
Page 148 , line 12 , for mada read made.
Page 45 , lines 15,19 , for $y o$ read $y \overline{0}$.
Page 80 , lines 8,14 , for yo read $y \bar{n}$.
Page 93 , line 11 , for yo read $y \overline{0}$.
Page 74 , line 12 , for mairu read (mairu).
Page 74 , line 14 , for taberlu read (taberu).
Although mairu (Comp. 73, 74) is better marked as only relatively humble, it is seldom employed in the Second Person even when inferiors are addressed. It is used in the First Person, and . also in the Third both in speaking of equals to equals and of inferiors to inferiors; in speaking to inferiors of their own actions, iku and kuru are the proper words to employ. This rule regarding mairu holds good of mōsu also, iu commonly taking its place in the Second Person. In familiar conversation with one another, students often use iu instead of ossharu. When an absolutely humble word is wanted, itadaku is substituted for taberu.

Mairu and teru-to shine should be inserted in the list on page 7 .
Uriy $\bar{o}-t$ to be sad should have been ranked as an exception to the rule given on page 3 ; its Inflection, especially as transliterated, being peculiar and as follows:

| Neg. Base. Root. | Indic. Pres. | Cond. Base. |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| weye | wrei | wriyo | ureye |

Ureyeru, a Regular Verb of the Second Conjugation, is more frequently heard in the Colloquial:
$\begin{array}{cccc}\text { Neg. Base. } & \text { Root. } & \text { Indic. Pres. } & \text { Cond. Base. } \\ \text { wreye } & \text { ureye } & \text { ureyerle } & \text { ureyere }\end{array}$

THE END.
